

Dear FCC Officials: This e-mail is to support XM radio and counter the NAB's petition. I have been an XM user since Jan 1, 2004. I enjoy getting more national information like C-span, CNN, CNBC, BBC and others in my car. I use the wether channel and would use the traffic reports, if I lived in a bigger city. Why wouldn't you need this information (traffic), but in your car. It can change by the time you get to your car in the morning or evening. It is a valuable service that could save lives. I don't have the control over open airwaves on the radio to get traffic or weather updates when I want them, or repeated, in case I miss something important. Please see this for what it is, an attempt to monoploize a market for profits and dismiss the petition.

Sincerely,
James Herzog
